Martin Cargas, Senior Advisor, advises commercial clients on environmental, social and governance (ESG) and related issues including emerging technology. He advises non-profit organizations on global engagement strategies and execution.

Martin Cargas spent a decade as Vice President for Global and Environmental Affairs at Anheuser-Busch Companies. He represented Anheuser-Busch before all levels of government across the world and helped the company expand its operations in critical overseas markets including China and India. He managed a network of regional and local consultants and oversaw and executed complex strategies across a broad range of issues, including food and beverage, intellectual property, and investment and regulatory issues. He is also a respected figure in Washington on international business issues.

Mr. Cargas joined Anheuser-Busch in 1991 as Associate General Counsel. Prior to his tenure at Anheuser-Busch, he practiced law in St. Louis, Missouri. He has served on numerous boards of relevant organizations including the Meridian International Center, the U.S.-China Education Trust and the University of Michigan School for Environment & Sustainability (SEAS) External Advisory Board.

Mr. Cargas holds a BS in natural resources policy from the University of Michigan, a JD from Hofstra University, and an Executive Masters in international business studies from St. Louis University.
